

S.C.A. Launches Annual Campaign To Secure Funds

Movement Finds Support In Campus And City

BUDGET PRESENTED

Representatives For Canvassing Students And Staffs Of Various Faculties Chosen

The Annual Campaign, sponsored by the S.C.A., for the purpose of raising funds to carry on its work, was officially inaugurated last night, at the semi-annual meeting of the McGill Association. In the Budget presented by Jack Smit, the Treasurer, the total amount of money required for the work locally and nationally is $7500.00. Of this amount only $1200.00 is raised in the University; the balance being raised in the city among graduates and friends.

In addressing the meeting Jack Smit stated that on his opinion this year marks a crisis in the history of the Association, and that upon the results of this campaign depends the future success of the movement. Chuck Stewart the Secretary of the S.C.A., and Dr. Fred Howes, Organizer of the Campaign in Applied Science in 1923, spoke to the students present, and urged the need for cooperation and enthusiastic support in the oncoming Canvass.

Outlines Campaigns

Hugh Trimmingham, President of the Association, outlined former campaigns, and explained some of the work undertaken by the S.C.A. of McGill, which is a part of the National Movement.

A plan for the organization of the canvass was proposed and adopted, by which all students and professors of the University, who are interested in the S.C.A., will be approached for their contributions to the Campaign.

Representatives Chosen

Representatives from all the Faculties were chosen to select helpers to collect from the students and the staff. The following men were chosen to head the campaign: Arts: Hugh Trimmingham and Erol Clift; Medicine: Robb MacDonald and Jack Smit; Commerce: John Lincoln; Engineering: Stan Rudkin and Cy Taylor; United Theological College: Ken Woodward; Diocesan College: A. J. Marshall; Presbyterian College: John Patterson; Graduate School: Lloyd Reynolds.

Engineers Discuss Magazine Expense

Several Men Volunteer For Staff Positions

About twenty-five men were present at the engineers' meeting yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, in order to discuss the expense of publication of the proposed Engineers' Magazine. L. McGee led the discussion, in which a representative of a printing firm submitted figures and suggestions dealing with the cost of production.

The origin of the Magazine was outlined. It is the result of a letter from Dean Brown of the Engineering Faculty, in which he suggested that a number of enthusiastic men, willing to spend some of their time and energy to bring out the publication, should volunteer for the job. The staff of the Faculty are strongly in favor of the magazine, and the support of Science and Architecture is promised. The printers submitted two sizes for the periodical of which

Annual Editor Convinced All The World's A Stage

Gradually, but not too slowly, the walls of the McGill Annual office are taking on the aspect of Bill's "Better Ole" dug-out corner, except that on closer examination, the pictures in the Annual's sanctuaries are seen to depart radically from the "La Vie parisienne" variety. Instead squirrels and students in amorous attitudes stand out in some prints while other negatives depict popular undergraduates in less refined poses.

But admiring these pictures brings nothing but disdain from the board of the Annual. "Those pictures," said the Editor-in-chief with a slight wave of the hand, "why, those pictures will be but remnants of what we are to use

Student Orchestra Begin Rehearsals On Opera Scores

IN order that the Student Orchestra may get away to an early start on the musical score of the "Yeoman of the Guard," the first rehearsal is called for this evening at 7:45 in the ballroom of the Union.

The orchestra is anxious to help the Operatic and Choral Society in this year's presentation as they did last year in "The Pirates of Penzance," and ask that all students interested turn out at practice tonight. A determined effort is being made to include as many students as possible in the orchestra and not to be compelled to call on outside assistance. The instruments most in need are violins, cellos, double bass and flute.

International Color In Mock Parliament

Two Speakers And One Judge To Represent United States

EXPECT LARGE AUDIENCE

Students Assured Of Proper Seating In Preference To Outsiders

Prominent judges will give the decision at tomorrow night's session of the Mock Parliament in the Union ballroom, where many of McGill's best speakers will share the floor with the visiting Vermont debaters on the resolution regarding the entry of the United States of America into the League of Nations. Aside from the international aspect of the speakers, one of the three judges who will give the decision on the formal part of the proceedings is the American Consul-General in Montreal, the Hon. Wesley Frost.

Sharing the judge's bench with the Consul-General will be the Hon. Adrian K. Hugessen, K.C., a prominent member of the local bar and well-known to McGill students as speaker in many former Mock Parliaments. With those two will be the Rev. Arthur O. Lloyd, B.A., minister of the Trinity United Church of Maltonneuve. H. Carl Goldenberg, president of the Debating Union will sit in the speaker's chair.

Subject Practical

The topic which will be discussed from the floor was chosen because of its potential practical nature, according to the committee in charge of the arrangements. The question has long been a burning one in the political arena of the United States, and recent developments in the Far East which have forced the United States to act through individual diplomatic channels have given renewed hope to those who insist that one of the wealthiest nations of the world has no right refusing to support the one possible means of settling international problems amicably.

In spite of the fact that a large number of outsiders are expected to attend the meeting, definite assurance has been given that McGill students will be properly seated.

the smaller was accepted, because it was less expensive and more handy.

It was stressed that the work must not be allowed to fall on one individual but must be shared by about fifteen men. An editor, about eight associate editors, and five or six other men to make the work as light as possible will compose the staff. Several undergraduates have already volunteered as associate editors, and the following offices have been filled: Advertising manager, D. Nesbitt; Financial manager, L. Seybold; Business manager, L. McGee.

If we continue to receive those Campus Life photographs as we have during the past few weeks, Fortunately, that is, fortunately for those who haven't as yet sent their attempts in, the contest isn't closing for a little while yet, and the opportunity to receive one of those big cash prizes still exists.

The moral is simply grasped. Snap into it and snap it. The world's a stage always set for the snap of the camera. The McGill world ought to go into the Annual. Communications will be received and welcomed by the Annual board. Leave them with your name at the "Tuck" Shop and they will be treated with the utmost confidence.

Lamb's Depictions Of Friends Form His Best Works

Anecdotes Of Famous Author Of Last Century Related

MOTHER MURDERED

Tragedy Of Home Life Turned Writer From Poetry To Prose

Dealing with Charles Lamb as a person, rather than as a poet, or critic or essayist, Dr. W. D. Woodhead, head of the Department of Classics of McGill University, related numerous anecdotes concerning the famous 19th Century writer to members of the English Literature Society at a meeting held yesterday in the Arts Building. Lamb had a wide circle of acquaintances and his reminiscences of their follies and peculiarities form, perhaps, the most important part of his literary work.

Opening his lecture with a short account of Lamb's life, Dr. Woodhead showed what an important effect the events of the essayist's life had on his writing. At an early age Lamb displayed a marked aptitude for writing and made many attempts at both prose and poetry. After the murder of his mother by his sister Mary, who was seized by a fit of madness, he took over the responsibility of the care of his aged father and of his sister. The tragedy in his home seemed to take Lamb away from poetry and he turned his attention entirely to prose.

Influenced By Sister

Lamb had a great affection for his sister, and his care of her is one of the greatest examples of brotherly love, was the opinion of the speaker. The two began a celebrated literary partnership and collaborated on several works, the best known being "Tales From Shakespeare." In all that he has written the influence of Mary, who is the Bridget Ella of the essays, is clearly to be perceived.

In discussing Lamb as a humorist, Dr. Woodhead stated that he is not easily appreciated in modern days because he wrote in a style and idiom different from that of today. The humour of Lamb is compact of sympathy rather than of antipathy, and his writings produce a mood in which laughter is very close to tears. Charlie Chaplin, on the screen, produces much the same effect on his audience, having them rollicking with laughter at one moment, and then on the verge of tears at the next.

Discovered Elizabethans

As a judge of literary work, Lamb showed exceptional critical ability in his appreciation of the writers of his own day, recognizing Wordsworth, (Continued on Page Four)

Women Debaters To Meet Queen's

Delta Sigma Society Sponsors Contest

"Resolved that this house approves the syndicate newspaper," is resolution selected by the Women's Intercollegiate Debating Union to be debated by Varsity, McMaster, Queen's, and McGill Universities on Monday, November 30. Doreen Harvie-Jellie, and Thelma Mitchell will uphold the affirmative here, and Alice Johansson and Isobel Dawson will support the negative on the same night at Kingston. At McGill the debate is to be held in the Convocation Hall of R.V.C. under the auspices of the Delta Sigma Society.

This contest is an annual fixture, and as no admission was charged last year the precedent will be followed this year. McGill lost the shield last season, but are making a determined effort to regain it this winter. The judges for the home contest have not yet been secured, but the executive assures that they will be prominent figures in Montreal and college affairs.

An earnest plea for the support of the McGill team is issued by The Delta Sigma Society, as it is claimed that their success is to a large extent dependent on the measure of student interest that they receive.

Chess Club Meeting

An important meeting of the Chess Club will take place on Wednesday, Nov. 25 at 5 p.m. in the Lounge of the Union. The first league game of the Club will be held on Nov. 30 at the Iversville Club. The executive tenders an invitation to all students who are interested in chess.

Many Innovations Will Mark Annual Medical Function

SPECIAL attention is being paid to the Medical Dinner this year, as it will be the fiftieth celebration to be held by the faculty. The committee in charge have arranged to hold the dinner on the seventeenth of January, in the Windsor Hotel. In order to be assured of a record attendance many innovations have been adopted.

The Freshman-Sophomore banquet is being combined with the Faculty Dinner. The price of tickets has also been considerably lowered from that of previous years. The first two years are being charged two dollars; Third and Fourth year men will pay three dollars; Seniors and graduates will be charged the sum of four and five dollars respectively.

Price Reduced For Engineers' Banquet

Expense Of Entertainment To Be Borne By Society

WILL SERVE BEER

Program Includes Speeches, Singing, And Original Dance Specialties

At a meeting of the Engineering Undergraduates Society held yesterday in the Engineering building, it was decided to reduce the price of tickets to the annual banquet to $1.50. Since the expense of this function will be the same as last year, this reduction means that the Society will lose at least $100.00 regardless of the number who attend the banquet.

Since the success of the banquet depends solely upon the number who attend it, it was decided to charge students only the actual price of the meal, the added expense of entertainment being borne by the Undergraduates Society.

Expect Co-operation

It is the hope of the executive that this action will result in an increased co-operation on the part of the students to make the banquet a success, in view of the fact they are faced with many extra expenditures at this time, such as class pins, class pictures, Junior Prom, etc.

The executive points out that this is the lowest price on record for a dinner which involves a whole faculty and is not merely a class function.

Principal Among Guests

The Principal of the University and the Dean of the Faculty will be among the guests present. The entertainment includes select speeches, singing, and dance specialties which have never been seen before in this city. A choice of free beer or ginger ale will supplement the full-course turkey dinner. Free cigarettes will be distributed.

The executive now looks to the students to make the banquet a success by lending it their full support.

Beethoven Sonata Theme Of Lecture

Meaning And Significance Of Work Interpreted

"Musical Form" was the topic of the radio-broadcast, yesterday afternoon by the National Council of Education, featuring J. J. Weatherseed, of the McGill Conservatory of Music. Mr. Weatherseed chose Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata as the musical number for his program and played it on the piano, as well as interpreted its meaning and significance. He pointed out that it had not been called the Moonlight Sonata by Beethoven himself, but that the name was later applied because the music brought up visions of moonlight.

The Moonlight Sonata is executed in three movements, the first of which is known as the imperfect sonata form, since it lacks development. The second movement embraces two forms, known as the Minuet and Trio, but really consists of two minuets, with the first repeated after the second in order to make a perfect whole. The Trio is so called because of the habit in former years of writing it only for three-stringed instruments, reserving the Tittle for the first string. The third movement is the most complex, being written in the sonata form proper, and is divided into three sections, as are all other works of this nature.

Old Order Breaking Collapse May Result

Paul Porter Issued Challenge At Labour Club Opening

Society Must Be Organized On Classless Basis

"Some seventy years ago, the Director of the United States Patent Bureau suggested that this department be closed, as all possible inventions had already been made. Yet since that day we have seen a complete revolutionism of life, and the creation of a new basis for civilization." With these prefatory remarks Mr. Paul Porter of the League for Industrial Democracy opened his address on the "Challenge of the New Social Order," speaking before the McGill Labour Club in Strathcona Hall last night.

"We now have the industrial capacity to produce enough of everything for everybody, and we can have a pleasure economy instead of a pain economy. There could be an opportunity for a comfortable standard of living, and poverty, slums and the war menace could be ended. The old order is breaking down in this present depression, and a radical shift of outlook is necessary to avert complete collapse, and Capitalism may crumble before we are ready.

Long Shifts Common

"We live in a society in which we see many hungry people, and yet the grain-elevators are bulging with wheat, and the surplus of coal cannot be sold. In spite of all the jobless men we find great numbers of children working, and long shifts are still common. This is unjustifiable, as is the present maldistribution of income. The trouble lies with the profit-making incentive, which is behind all enterprise, and which is now unnecessary. We are trying to run a high powered age with the velocity of an ox-cart era.

"Formerly, the family used to consume most of what it produced, but the coming of the Factory Age has put an end to that. Division of function and a struggle for an equal distribution of national revenue is the basis of the class war. To oppose the various monopolies held by the owners all that the workers can do is to organize a monopoly of their power of labour by unionising.

No Overproduction

"The order preached by us Socialists will be based on production for use and not for profit. This means state ownership and control of the means of production, with all kinds of workers well-represented on the controlling boards. Under this system there would be no overproduction. The Socialists do not aim at the abolishment of private property; they want social ownership to give the individual more chance to own (Continued on Page Two)

Talks Will Outline Wheat Difficulties

Political Economy Club Sponsors Meeting

"Wheat in Western Canada" will be the subject of two papers by Fred Stone and Allison Walsh at the next meeting of the Political Economy Club, Thursday evening at 8:30 in the Smoking Room of the Arts Building. The two speakers will attempt to deal with all aspects of the subject, after which the meeting will be thrown open for questions and discussion.

In 1930 the price of wheat fell sharply and much consternation was aroused in the west. At the present it appears to be rising again, but the difficulties of the farmers are not by any means over yet. The problems of the wheat growers are of the greatest importance to all Canada, for wheat forms about 20% of Canada's exports. The subject should therefore be of interest to all, and the executive invite all students in Economics to attend, especially those in second year.

Walsh, a third year honour student in Economics and Political Science, will undertake to deal with the production of wheat in all its aspects and with transportation methods and costs. He will compare the costs of transportation and production in other countries, and will discuss future possibilities in the wheat situation.

Stone, a graduate student, will deal with the marketing of wheat. He will discuss the history of the Co-operative Movement and the Wheat Pools, will deal with their problems and future possibilities, and will mention the effects of trading in future on wheat prices.

Ideal Girl Must Be Gay Pagan And Wild Angel

SYRACUSE, November 23. —

(Special to McGill Daily)—The composite views of a number of young men regarding their ideal type of girl revealed various views on the subject. The majority insisted on a woman who is a home maker, a lover of children and who avoided vulgarity and profanity, smoking and drinking.

One young man declared, "She must not think anything wrong in smoking or drinking, or other delightful vices of the ordinary human." Another declared that she must be "a gay pagan and a wild angel."

Visitor Considers Montreal Immune To Imminent Riots

Situation Contrary To That Of Cities In United States

"MONTREAL is treating her unemployed in a much more decent and humane way than is any American city, and, contrary to the situation in the large cities of the United States, is practically immune to imminent riots," declared Paul Porter, Field Secretary of the League for Industrial Democracy, when interviewed by the Daily last night.

Tall, with a splendid physique and more than the average share of good looks, Mr. Porter impresses one rather as a Beau Brummel than as an authority on world economic problems. He speaks with a delightfully musical Mid-Western accent, and his interest in his work is only too apparent in his animated manner and his youthful zest.

WHEN asked whether Russia was strong enough to thwart Japan's plans in the East, Mr. Porter replied that he did not think so, and that in his opinion Russia had no desire to enter into conflict with Japan at present. The aim of Russia is to establish a firm economic position in the world, and a struggle with Japan would, undoubtedly, throw any such plan out of gear. In fifteen years' time, when Russia will have made for herself a place among the foremost nations, she may harbour some such ambition, but as matters stand, there is no danger of any forthcoming attack.

In discussing the Five Year Plan, Mr. Porter stated that the success of the Plan is, on the whole, inevitable. Three years of the experiment have already passed, and in almost every field of industry the Russians are ahead of schedule. True enough, they have fallen down in some details, but these are insufficient to detract from the general outcome of the Plan.

"THE tariff wall between Canada and the United States is the stupidest bit of folly that ever was perpetrated," vehemently exclaimed (Continued on Page Four)

Library Exhibit Reproductions From Viennese Institution

Reproductions From Viennese Institution

A large number of reproductions of pictures in the National Library in Vienna, comprising the Monumenta Scenica, are now on exhibition in the reading room gallery of the Redpath Library. These show theatrical designs and costumes in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. By means of these pictures a clear idea may be obtained of the various phases through which Europe passed in the years embraced by the period.

From among the available designs the curator of the Vienna Library has chosen the three hundred best specimens which are included in this collection. The set was presented to McGill University through the generosity of Mr. Howard Murray. It will afford all those interested in the beauties of the theatre's past an opportunity to gratify their desires.

Sociological Society

John Berry will present a paper on "The Enigma of Canadian Immigration" at the second meeting of the Sociological Society which will be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 24, at 8 o'clock in room 30 of the Arts Building. All interested are invited to attend.

Improvements In Radio Broadcast Greatly Hindered

Importance Of Careful Listening Stressed By Col. Bovey

COHERENCE NECESSARY

Reinforcement By Written Summaries Or Copies Thought Inadvisable

"Radio education, like any other kind of education, has two parties to it,—the speaker and the listener, and if it is to be successful, both must do their share," declared Col. Bovey yesterday afternoon while speaking on behalf of radio education during the National Council of Education's broadcast. "Much of the success of these broadcasts," the speaker pointed out, "is due to the efforts of Mr. Simpson, the station secretary, who made possible the broadcasts of this year."

Col. Bovey showed the necessity for more direct and closer relations between speaker and listener, and stressed the plea that speakers address individuals, and not speak to the microphone as if it were a crowd. The listener, on his part, should regard the speaker as if he were in the same room and addressing him personally. Only by such close co-operation can the success of the broadcasts be assured.

Shows Difference

The next important thing is to learn how to listen, for there is a great difference between mere hearing, and listening so as to comprehend. The lack of attention on the part of the listener or reader is the greatest problem education has to face. It is such incoherence which causes the numerous school-boy howlers which appear on examination papers. On one occasion a student stated that the Eiffel Tower was called the Leaning tower of Pisa, and was situated in Persia; another placed the Suez canal between the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario; while still another stated that a delusion was a diversion, — placing pins on chairs was his favorite delusion.

Must Be Improved

The speaker then pointed out that if radio education is to get anywhere it must be greatly improved. The audience must learn to listen with the intention of remembering. He stated that if listening were not work then radio education was not education at all, and that the broadcasts were valueless. It is true that (Continued on Page Four)

New Club Defers Officers' Election

German Society Will Adopt Initiation Of Members

At a meeting of the newly-formed German Society yesterday, it was decided to hold no election of officers until some time in the new year, when progress and results could be more clearly seen. English was spoken at this meeting, as it was of a purely business nature, but in future, German must be spoken at all meetings.

E. Carter, who was in the chair, suggested a form of initiation into the society. The candidate would first appear before a "Führer," to whom he or she would answer questions pertaining to their lives; secondly, the candidate should tell a joke to a "Richter," then there would be a Christening with some well-known German literary name by a "Priester," after which food (to be specified later), would be supplied by a Cook. It was decided that the new members be initiated by the old members, after some discussion.

Professor Walter then spoke, stressing the fact that the German Department had no official connection with the club, which was largely due to the efforts of Carter. He stressed the point that a regular attendance by all members was essential to ensure the success of the organization. A committee of older members was formed to draw up the programme for the next meeting, and every second Monday at four o'clock was found to be a suitable meeting-time for all those present.

Arts '34 Debating

The second meeting of the Arts '34 Debaters will be held tomorrow at five o'clock in Room 70 of the Arts Bldg. Some debating hints will be outlined by Fred V. Stone. All those interested are invited to attend. Freshmen especially will be welcome.

Redmen Maintain Lead In Senior Group

Soccer Club Meets Today In Union To Elect Officers

Ends Good Season, Despite Loss Of Title

Eddie Mollott, Twice Captain Graduates This Year

FOLLOWERS of soccer will congregate at five o'clock this afternoon in the Reading Room of the Union for the election of officers for next year. This marks the end of an active, and on the whole, a successful season, even though the redmen failed to retain the Intercollegiate championship, which Varsity captured.

Eddie Mollott, twice captain, having led the team to championship the previous season, graduates in Dentistry this year. He has seen a great deal of action with McGill soccer clubs for the last few seasons, and this year was one of the mainstays on the eleven. Graduation may cost the team two more men in the persons of Crabbree and Minnion. The former is finishing his course in Commerce, and the latter is doing his final year in Arts.

Good Material Uncovered.

There are, however, some new men who look good enough to step up into senior company. Smart, who is captain of the Reserves this year, will most probably get a regular berth next season among the first stringers, as he has been improving year by year, and this is his third season under McGill colours. Ernie Carter developed into a formidable candidate for a regular position on the senior eleven towards the close of the season, showing up extremely well under fire. Jack Ewen, a newcomer from the other side, made the senior team right from the start. Duder and Astwood also came in for particular mention; George Owen was with the first squad last year, and is one of the more consistent and dependable members of the aggregation.

Johnson, who was the sensation of the Reserves is another good prospect; Janikun has been playing soccer at McGill for the last three years, and looks like another probable senior for next year. Reece, who is in third year Medicine, has been with the first team for several seasons. Nolan was also a sensation of the 1931 season.

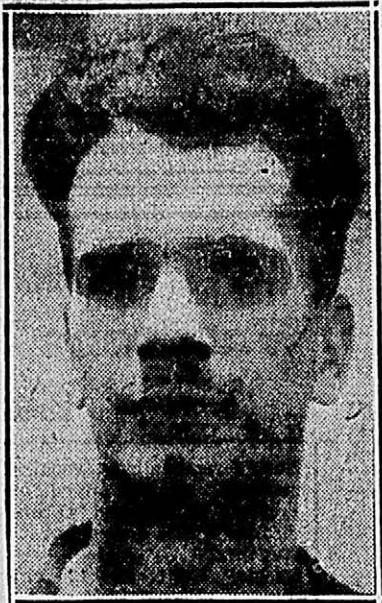

Have Good Record.

On the whole, the prospects for next year are very bright, with such a wealth of material on hand. The meeting this afternoon will see the election of new officers, and also the discussion of trips to the United States in 1932. The redmen were unsuccessful in their defence of their intercollegiate laurels this year, but their average of victories is a good one.

They lost the recent game with the All-Stars of the Montreal High Schools, by the close score of 2-1; against Sun Life and the Royal Victoria Hospital of the Mid-Week League, they drew both times, the score of the first game having been 2-2, whilst the latter was 1-1. Before leaving for the intercollegiate tilt in Toronto, the redmen humbled the strong United Banks outfit by a 3-1 count and a short while after, they suffered a defeat by the same score at the hands of the Springfield International Y.M.C.A. aggregation, in a close match.

Has Played Last Game For McGill

EDDIE MOLLOTT, twice captain of the soccer team, has turned in his last game with the red eleven, as he graduates in Dentistry this year. This marks the end of a long term of service in local soccer circles.

Cagers Settle Down To Regular Grind

Interclass Hoop Schedule Starts Monday, Nov. 30

PRACTICE HOURS GIVEN

Senior Basketball

The following are especially requested to turn out regularly at the basketball practices: Faulkner, Small, Weber, Lewin, Halpenny, Ross, Talpis, Hammond, McBroom, Shandree, Soller, Monahan, Nugent, McMoran, White, Lee, Mills.

WEEDING out processes are greatly in evidence at the basketball practices in the Montreal High School, where more than 20 men are striving three times a week for regular berths on the two senior teams. Coach Van Wagner had the men going through practice games to discover their weak points, with the obvious aim of correcting them.

Hammond, Halpenny, Talpis and Tucker, a new man, were out going through the paces with the rest of the candidates. In the absence of Don Young, Mel Rice, and Bob Calhoun, Van Wagner has selected a tentative first team composed of Faulkner, Small, Weber, Lewin, Halpenny, and Ross. This does not mean that the senior team has already been definitely selected, but merely that the coach is attempting to discover the best combination.

Calhoun May Not Return. Bob Calhoun, captain of the senior intercollegiate quintet, may not be able to participate this year, pending upon the permission of the Law Faculty; his injury in football put him behind in his studies, and it is this that may prevent his return to the cage game.

The opening of the interclass basketball league has been postponed to Monday, November 30. Practice hours for the week of November 23 to 25 are:

Monday
5:15 p.m. Girls' Gym. Eng. II and Arts IV; 6:15 p.m. Girls' Gym. Eng. I and Com. IV.
Tuesday

McGill Puck Squad Beats U. of M., 1-0

Johnson, Griffiths, And McHugh Show Up Well In Senior Debut

CRUTCHFIELD GETS SINGLE COUNTER

MCGILL'S senior hockey squad got the surprise of the season last night when it met the U. of M. team in the most ragged of this year's games. Eking out a 1-0 victory over the Frenchmen by the fluke of the season—a slip-in off Page's stick—the red team maintained its record of three wins and still sits on the top of the City League, but by no stretch of the imagination can they claim to have given the 5,000 ardent fans who thronged the Forum a display of fast and smooth hockey.

Admittedly Bobby Bell's men did tear up and down the ice with a certain amount of speed, but their combination was put to shame by that of the U. of M. team who time after time skated circles around them. Condition, too, was seen to be poor, and when a man like Farmer has to ask to be relieved, the team is certainly in a bad way. One thing in McGill's favour, however, was the way they fought in the last period. Coach Bell must have given them some pep talk at the end of the second frame, for when they came on the ice for the last time they were a different team entirely from the poor shooting and generally disrupted band of hockey players of the first two periods.

After the Canadian-Victoria match in which the Frenchmen took a 4-1 victory the crowd had reached nearly the 5,000 mark. The McGill band was in attendance, and when Dr. Dubau came out to face-off the puck 'the whole assembly stood up while "Alma Mater" and "O Canada" were played.

Exciting Moments
Several exciting moments occurred during the game to keep up the enthusiasm of the spectators. In the first period just after Gordie Johnson had come on the ice for the first time this year, he received the puck and skated right up on top of Martel, the French goalie, he shot but the sphere was nicely saved by the net-keepers chest protector. Again in the second frame, Lafleur, U. of M. centre, shot at McGill's goal and found the back of the net, but it was not allowed due to an off-side.

Both teams were so anxious to win that the final period became a regular rough-house for the players. Penalties followed in quick succession and Lafleur finally had to be carried off the ice due to an injury received towards the close of the game.

Mermaids To Stage Annual Swimming Meet Thursday

NINE EVENTS OPEN

R. V. C. mermaids will shake their fins on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 in the Knights of Columbus natatorium, when the McGill Women Students Athletic Association holds its annual swimming meet. Nine events are open to competition, and a record number of entries is expected. Last year, the meet was held on November 6, the winner having been Gwen Nicholson in Class 'A' and Winnie Chisholm in Class 'B'.

Entry blanks have been posted on the R.V.C. Athletic Notice Board, and will be taken down this evening, so anyone desiring to take part should make it a point of signing at once. Awards will be given to winners of the different events. The most spectacular events last year were the diving and long plunge, which were won by Gwen Nicholson and Cynthia Bazin respectively.

Officials
The officials for the meet are: Dr. Lamb, clerk of course; Misses Slack, Binnore, and Heriot, judges. The events: Racing Back Stroke; Breast (Continued on Page Four)

Five Men Will Carry Red Colours Against M.A.A.A.

Same Team To Clash With Mount St. Louis Swordmen

THURSDAY night will see the fencers starting their inter-club competitions, when they cross foils with the M.A.A.A. swordsmen at the latter's clubhouse on Peel Street. In most probability, five men will represent each team, and in all there will be 20 bouts. Wiggers, who was elected captain of the club last night, MacAllister, Perrault, Demontigny, and Moll will carry the McGill colours into the contest.

On Saturday evening at eight o'clock in the Union, the fencers will be at home to the Mount St. Louis quintet, who defeated them last year by a large score. The same men will line up for McGill as for the M.A.A.A. competition. The ranks have been depleted through the graduation of Mc-

Kergow and Harvey-Jellie, but the men who have been chosen to carry on in their place have proven their worth on several occasions.

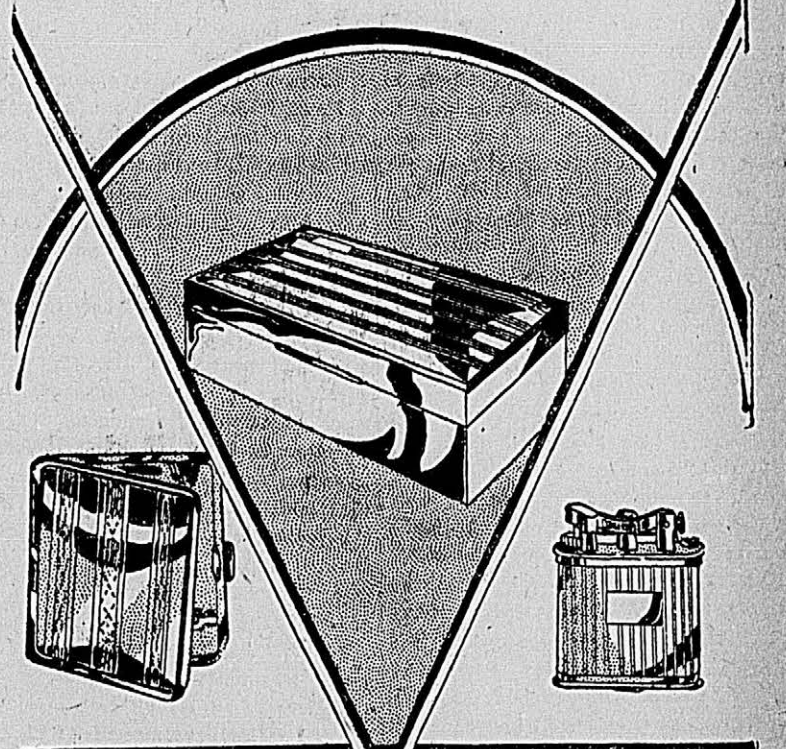

Perrault Stands Out

Outside of Wiggers, who is one of the finest foilsmen in Canada, Perrault, who has been with the club since his freshman year, looms up as a good intercollegiate prospect. Last year, he was chosen to accompany the team to Norwich University, but could not get away. Demontigny, who went in his place, showed up surprisingly well, and although he lost all his bouts but one, the one he did win was from Pendo, captain of the American squad, and their best man. The latter only lost that one bout of the entire meet, beating both McKergow and Harvey-Jellie, veterans of many assaults-at-arms. Coach Raimondi has taken Demontigny into hand, and he, too, looks like a good man for the team.

As a team in intercollegiate competition is composed of only three fencers, there is a bitter struggle between the men for a place on the team.

East Looks West Seeking Advice On Ideas Of Feminism

Dr. Kiang Kang-Hu Described Position Of Chinese Women

FOLLOW OCCIDENT

Staus Has Been Raised As Old Philosophy Was Discarded

"Chinese women look for advice to their elder sisters in the West in the new feminist movement," said Dr. Kiang Kang-Hu in an address delivered to the Montreal West Women's Club yesterday afternoon in the United Church of Montreal West. The subject of the talk was "Women's Position in China: Ancient and Modern."

In ancient times the status of women everywhere was lower than it is to-day; and this was so especially in China. Such an attitude was due to the influence of the ancient Chinese philosophy, as set forth in the Book of Changes, the root of all Oriental philosophy, and the oldest written book in the world. In it all phenomena and all origins were classified into two groups, positive and negative. Man came under the positive and women under the negative; hence man had a high position and women a correspondingly low one.

Idea Prevailed

This idea prevailed in China for several thousand years. Women's position during that period might be summarized in the following phrases: graceful daughter, dutiful wife, and kindly mother. Within this compass, a woman's whole existence lay. She did not live for herself; there was nothing for her in life but marriage and obedient service. In her capacity of daughter and wife and mother there was no such term as "old maid," for every woman was married. This ideal of woman is severely criticised by the modern feminists, but its real beauty and virtue should not be overlooked.

Influence Felt

Towards the beginning of the nineteenth century, Western influence began to make itself felt in China, and with it came a new standard for the Chinese woman. Her motto changed to "Liberty, Equality, and Independence"—a motto similar to that of the modern Western woman. She began to demand freedom from and equality with men, and to insist on her right to choose either marriage or a career. This movement did much to ameliorate the position of Chinese women but at the same time, it brought problems peculiar to itself.

Are women able to follow a successful career and at the same time play an important family role? The Chinese think this problem may be solved to some extent by an application of the law of highly specialized labor, the duties of wife, mother, and caretaker of a child being distinguished as separate occupations capable of being carried on by different persons, thus allowing the professional woman freedom to take up her career and also to take just as much home duties as she wishes.

Modern Thought

Out of the new feminist movement in China, some very modern ideas have originated. For instance, it is proposed that all international government be left in the hands of women. As they would not wish to see their husbands and sons fighting, they would take every possible step to prevent international wars.

Mr. Porter in reply to the interviewer's question as to his opinion of the tariff, "I see no earthly need for such a tariff, and to me it is almost as ridiculous as setting up a tariff between—well, Alberta and Saskatchewan, for instance."

Mr. Porter feels that there will be some improvement in world economic conditions within the next year or two, but that it will take perhaps ten years for a complete recovery. He compared the present situation with that of the United States after the Civil War, when it took the country almost twenty years to re-establish itself on a sound and prosperous basis.

News item: McGill Daily reporters spent a busy week-end calling the local hotels to find out if "Chick" Salo had been in town. Saturday mornings, when the groundmen started their daily round, they noticed a superficial change in the appearance of the box around the much-discussed Campus Fountain. On two sides thereof, doors, complete with doorknobs and hinges were painted.
Door frames were neatly done in black, extra streaks being added to represent other appurtenances. Over each door frame was painted a single

Lamb's Depictions Of Friends Form His Best Works

Coleridge and Keats for just what they were. He practically discovered the Elizabethans, and his Shakespearian criticisms were little gems in themselves.

Lamb and Coleridge were on very intimate terms and Lamb had a great fondness for the Lake Poet. On one occasion, Coleridge button-holed Lamb and went off on a long dissertation on some subject or other. Lamb, who was in a great hurry to keep some pressing engagement, pulled off the button of his coat and left Coleridge standing there. When he returned about an hour later he found Coleridge still talking, with the button in his hand.

Died in 1834

The death of Coleridge in 1834 was the cause of the death of Lamb. He never recovered from the blow, and passed away six months after the death of his friend. Dr. Woodhead ended his lecture with a tribute to Lamb, saying, "The people who love Charles Lamb, love him a little more than they do any other author."

Improvements In Radio Broadcast Greatly Hindered

It is quite difficult to remember all that has been said, but with a great deal of diligence, much of it may be retained. Hard work in listening and lack of ease in retaining should deter no one from radio education.

Col. Bovey considered the suggestion of reinforcing the broadcasts by written summaries or copies. This is not a good idea, he contended, for if the audience expected to be able to read all about the lecture it would not listen as well. He dealt too with the problem of how to listen to music most of which the listener cannot understand, though he may be pleased by the beautiful or harmonious sounds. For this reason the musical programs were instituted, so that people might be able to comprehend and enjoy the music that they heard.

Soccer Club Meets Today In Union To Elect Officers

McGill has held the Canadian Intercollegiate Soccer crown six times since 1924; the redmen won it for five successive years until 1929, when they released it to the Toronto blue-boys. In 1930, they recaptured it, and lost it again this season; but according to present indications, they ought to repeat their 1930 victory next year. The most decisive win of the year was at the expense of the R.M.C. cadets, who went down by the large score of 11-1, as the result of a whirlwind offensive on the part of the McGill boys.

The positions of Captain, manager, assistant manager, president, and so on, will be decided at the meeting this afternoon. All men in the university interested in soccer, and especially members of the teams are requested to be present, as plans will be formulated for next year. All those who still have soccer equipment are asked to give it in to Coach Hay Finlay in the Physical Education Office, University Street,
before the meeting.
